If it works for you then I am glad it helped. A: I figured it out, you need to put a space before and after the ' and it worked fine. Q: The selected field didn't match with the field requested I am using Delphi XE5. I got an error: The selected field didn't match with the field requested when select an image in the combo box. The code is: procedure TForm1.CheckBoxSelectToCopyClick(Sender: TObject); var Img: TPicture; begin Img := TPicture.Create; Img.LoadFromFile('...'); ImageList1.Add(Img); ImageList1.IndexOf(Img); end; procedure TForm1.FormCreate(Sender: TObject); begin CheckBoxSelectToCopy.OnCheck := CheckBoxSelectToCopyClick; end; How to solve this problem? A: Indeed the problem is with the Add() method. From the docs for TImageList.Add() The image represented by the passed-in object must be added to the list before it is returned. So the only reason to not add the image to the list is because you've not added any item before calling the Add() method. That's why your code is generating the error. When working with images, it's almost always better to LoadPicture() and LoadBitmap() instead of Create(). Since Create() sets the image's property to Image.FromFile(), it will fail when you try to add the image to the list. The Load* methods, on the other hand, do not set the property to Image.FromFile() and works as expected: procedure TForm1.CheckBoxSelectToCopyClick(Sender: TObject); var Img: TPicture; begin Img := TPicture.Create; Img.LoadFromFile('...'); ImageList1.Add(Img); ImageList1.IndexOf(Img); end; Solveig Tjomsland Solveig Tjomsland (born

A: As a general rule, there are two ways to avoid the issue with the different sized images: Do everything at the same size. For example, if you make two buttons that are the same size, then you don't have the issue. Do everything at the same size and scale. For example, if you have a button that is 10x10 and you scale it so that it's 1x1, you don't have the issue. If you don't do #2, your text won't go into the empty space. Since the images and the text are the same size, you can't tell which is doing what just from the two different sizes. Sweden is one of the most successful countries in Europe in terms of living standards, but it also has one of the highest levels of personal debt in the EU, according to a new study. A study published this month by the European Commission shows that Swedes have household debt worth three times the average in the other EU countries. Of course, Sweden has one of the lowest population densities in the EU, but the average Swede holds some 2.7 times the number of items of personal debt compared to the average EU citizen. This highlights that personal debt is a large problem in Sweden – and not just for people living in the country. A few decades ago Sweden and other countries began to regulate the personal debt industry, including limiting the number of payday loans that could be issued. This resulted in a dip in the number of people using payday loans and generally high interest credit card offerings, but the total number of people in personal debt has increased. This is largely because of an increase in people's disposable incomes and the fact that the options for getting credit have become more available. The report breaks down the categories of people in debt and the number of people in each category for Sweden and for the EU as a whole. It shows that 17.5% of Sweden's population has some form of personal debt (one in five people) – the highest proportion in the EU, but actually a low proportion when compared to the EU average of 19.9% (27.3 million people compared to 29.2 million). The problem of debt is also greater in Sweden than in the EU, even though, according to the report, the overall level of disposable income is higher in Sweden than anywhere else in the EU. A second chart in the report
